It is the applicant's responsibility to determine his or her eligibility for classes in accordance with admissions policies outlined in the current catalog of the University. Students on academic suspension from a college or university are not eligible for enrollment. Acceptance into classes does not constitute acceptance into degree programs. Students pursuing or planning to pursue degrees from Truman or other universities are advised to verify prior to their enrollment whether they will be able to apply credit earned through courses toward their degrees. It is especially important that early contact be made with the appropriate university office before accumulation of excessive credit.
